Public Law 91-505

October 23, 1970 [H.R. 15405] AN ACT

To render the assertion of land claims by the United States based upon accretion or avulsion subject to legal and equitable defenses to which private persons asserting such claims would be subject.

Riverside County land tract, Calif.

Equitable settlement between U.S. and private parties. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the United States shall be subject to all legal and equitable defenses which are available against a private party litigant under the laws of the State in which the subject real property is located on the date of enactment of this Act in any case wherein the United States seeks to establish title to land or seeks to obtain relief dependent on ownership of such lands and (1) such title or ownership is claimed on the basis of accretion or avulsion, (2) the lands to which the United States seeks title or ownership are not necessary to provide riparian frontage to other contiguous lands owned by the United States, (3) the facts upon which the United States bases its claim of accretion or avulsion occurred more than forty years prior to the effective date of this Act, (4) the defendant has paid real property taxes on the disputed lands on the same basis as other owners of fee lands within the same taxing jurisdiction, (5) defendants claim title to the disputed lands or lands to which the disputed lands are claimed to have accreted by chains of title deriving from a conveyance from the State or Federal Government or a political agency or subdivision thereof, and (6) a reasonably prudent man would have believed that, when he acquired title to the real property in question, he had obtained title free of the likelihood of any claim by the United States Government, any State, or any private person, but in no event shall the provisions of this Act apply to any land other than that land situated in Riverside County, California, within three miles of any portion of the Colorado River between river points 13.00 and 13.17, as defined in the interstate compact defining the boundary between the States of Arizona and California (80 Stat. 340).

Sec. 2. For purposes of determining the date of acquisition of title to the real property in question by a private party litigant, his date of mination. acquisition of title shall be deemed that of the earliest date when he first acquired title to the real property and for purposes of determining said acquisition and ownership of stock or real property under this

Act-
